DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS*"ELECTRICAL ENERGY INSPECTION ACT"

NOTICE is hereby given that, pursuant to Order in Council No. 380, approved February 26th, 1958, and pursuant to section 17 of the "Electrical Energy Inspection Act," being chapter 107 of the "Revised Statutes of British Columbia, 1948," the following regulations have been made:—

Regulations Governing Installation of Television Equipment on Overhead Electric Lines

1. The following regulations are intended to establish minimum safety requirements for the installation of television distribution-cables, amplifiers, and associated equipment on overhead electric lines carrying circuits of which the voltage between any two conductors exceeds two hundred and fifty (250) volts.

2. No installation shall be commenced until a formal permit in writing therefor has been issued by the Inspector of Electrical Energy, and no connection shall be made to any subscriber's premises until the installation has been inspected and approved. Each application for permit shall be accompanied by plans in triplicate showing electrical characteristics and physical arrangement on the poles of existing circuits, location and method of mounting cables and equipment, and complete details of proposed protective equipment. For the purpose of this regulation, an installation shall include the distribution-cables, amplifiers, and associated equipment, but, excepting as provided in Regulation No. 7 hereunder, shall not include connections to consumers' premises.

3. No television equipment shall be installed on any poles carrying power circuits of which the voltage between phase-conductors exceeds fifteen thousand (15,000) volts.

4. Before issuing a permit to install television equipment on any overhead electric line carrying power circuits, the Inspector may at his discretion require the power authority to submit such circuit diagrams and information pertaining to ground-fault protection as may be necessary to ensure that accidental contact between any phase-conductor and any portion of the television installation will de-energize the circuit. In the event of such contact, the power authority will be permitted to reclose the circuit three times, but if the fault condition still exists after the third such reclosure, the circuit shall remain de-energized until the fault has been located and eliminated. The messenger-cable of the television system shall be capable of carrying sufficient fault current to open the power-circuit protective device.

5. On overhead electric lines carrying star-connected power circuits, the neutral conductor shall be connected, either solidly or through a suitable fault-current-limiting device, to the neutral point of the generator or transformer bank supplying the circuit, and shall be continuous throughout the length of the television installation. Where such neutral conductor is used as a common neutral for both primary and secondary circuits, it shall be grounded to approved ground electrodes at each end of the television cable, at each amplifier, and in any case at intervals throughout its length of not over one-quarter ( $\frac{1}{4}$ ) mile. The over-all ground resistance of the system shall not exceed ten (10) ohms.

6. Every television distribution-cable shall be carried throughout its length by a steel messenger-cable having a diameter of not less than one-quarter ( $\frac{1}{4}$ ) inch, with a tensile strength suitable for the spans involved. The messenger shall be grounded to approved ground electrodes at each end and at each amplifier, and in any case at intervals of not more than one-quarter ( $\frac{1}{4}$ ) mile throughout its length. The over-all ground resistance of the system shall not exceed ten (10) ohms. On lines carrying star-connected power circuits with common grounded neutral, grounding shall be carried out by bonding the messenger electrically to the neutral conductor at each point where such neutral conductor is grounded in accordance with Regulation No. 5 of these regulations. In any case the over-all ground resistance of the system shall not exceed ten (10) ohms.

7. At each subscriber's service, the service-cable shall be supported throughout its length between the service-pole and the building on a suitable messenger-cable. This branch cable shall be electrically bonded to the main messenger-cable.

8. Each set of amplifying equipment shall be installed in an approved weather-proof metal enclosure which shall be securely mounted on a standard cross-arm in such location as will not impair the climbing-space. The power-supply to the amplifier equipment shall comply with the regulations contained in the Canadian Electrical Code, Part I, as adopted for use in British Columbia. The neutral service conductor and all metal non-current-carrying parts of the service and television equipment shall be electrically bonded to the television messenger-cable.

9. Fees for permits and inspection of television installations will be charged in accordance with the rates set forth in the Regulations Governing Electrical Permits and Inspection Fees under Schedule V (Miscellaneous Inspections) or other appropriate schedules in the said regulations.
